Love

The dawn breaks.

*We remember ourselves
as little children, reaching out for new knowledge that the world has to give.*

*We are in the midst of youth,
branching out
over the earth.*

Love and pain lead us through each day.

As we grow wiser the stream of life runs through us.

*The presence of our child-like beliefs still lingers
in our minds.*

*Now we must say goodbye to these fantasies
and dreams*

Administration ...the Basis of Understanding

Running a high school office is not always easy, but with the qualified people we have daily procedures usually run quite smoothly. Opposite page right, Mr. Charles Cotton, principal, checks budgets, with the assistance of Mrs. Lucille Chartier, head secretary. Far right, Mr. Eugene Parsons, assistant principal, is always willing to help a student with a problem like Mary Bonnici. Below, opposite page, seeing that our students are well taken care of, Mrs. Joyce Wiinikainen, our school nurse, looks at Jill Lozen's wrist to see that everything is all right. Above, Mrs. Carol Eber, assistant secretary, just can't understand why so many kids are coming in late. Looking into the cafeteria tape, Mrs. Denise Cunningham, clerk typist, right, is seeing if everything balances.

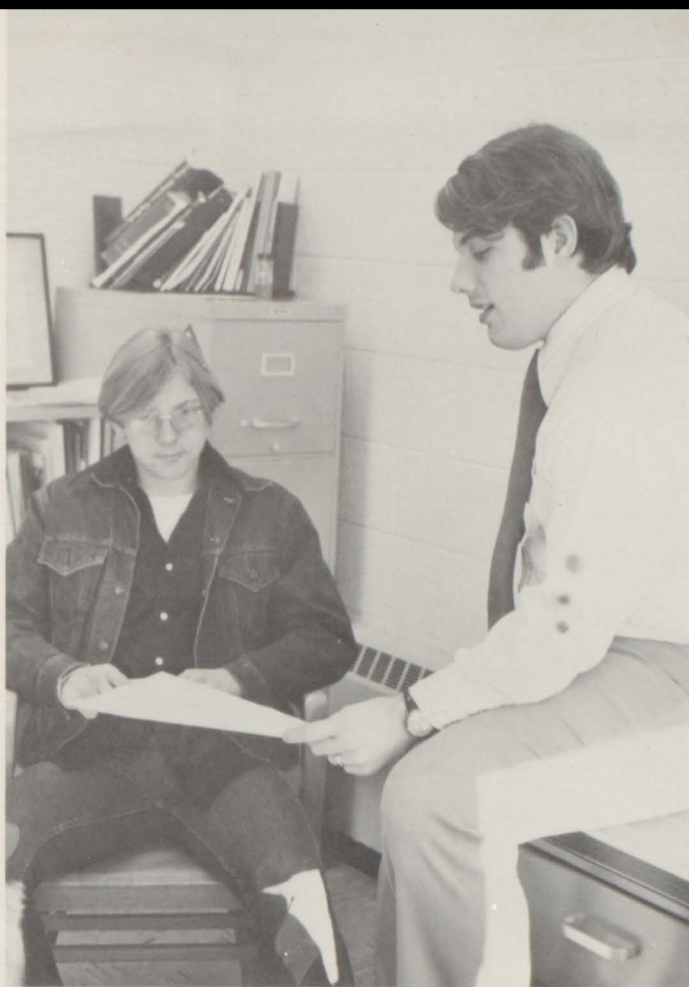

The development of talent is the main concern of the Fine Arts Department. Right, Miss Jean Bastian wonders what in the world that girl is playing now. Bottom left, Mrs. Julianna Clausen, asks why she always gets into these messes, while Tom Warrington comments on how nicely "his" project is turning out. Bottom right, Mrs. Kathleen Grenzke is afraid to turn around and find out what "estos dos chicos" have come up with.

Fine Arts Department Inspires Talent

Together Students and Counselors Survive Hectic Year

I was sitting in study hall, studying quietly when I was tapped lightly on the shoulder. "Your counselor wants to see you a minute." While walking to his office I wondered if the reason might be semester registration change, the return of my P.S.A.T. test or maybe skipping G Hour.

This incident could have happened to any of the students at M.C.H.S. As with Terry Erb, left, guided by Mr. David Scheel, it was just a matter of clearing up a class selection. But below Miss Kathrine Kimmet had a bigger problem as Mary Reichle tried to convince her she didn't want to be an engineer.

$20^{\circ}(-30r^2) + 2p + b = (120-9-1)$  I Think!

Paramecium dart, Amoeba crawl, and Euglena spin happen not in the land of fairy tales, but in some of the science classes at M.C.H.S. Here "experimentation" is the key word.

If you look through the magic key-hole you might see Mrs. Mary Harris, Mr. George Newcombe, or Mr. Wayne Ferriably leaning over brown-colored liquids in beakers or weighing and balancing proportions of odd substances.

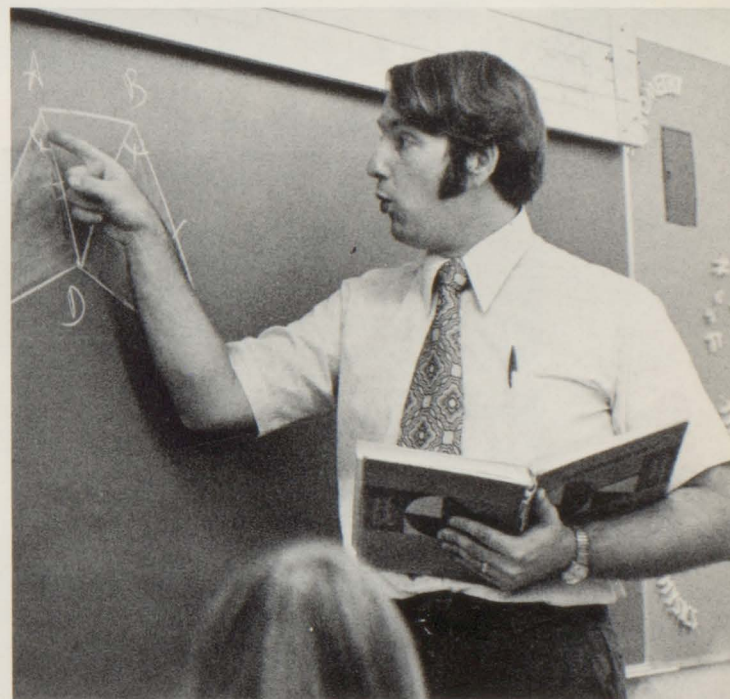

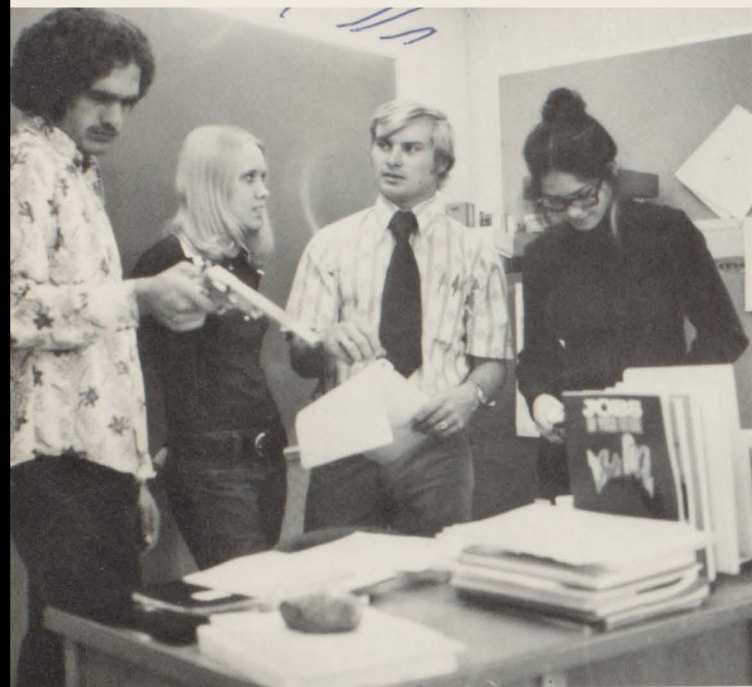

Equations, proofs, planes, and angles all added up to many problems which confronted math students this year at M.C.H.S.

"But that's how I had it in the first place!" says Marsha Kundrick to Mr. Gene Gunderson, bottom left.

Creative Writing, Poetry, and Shakespeare Provide Captivating Atmosphere

The main objectives of the English department are to prepare students for further schooling and also for everyday usage of the language in communication areas. Our English department has added a paperback library program and also two new classes, Musical Theater and Yearbook Design and Layout. Top right, Mrs. Barbara Saph, seems to enjoy being back at the daily grind again. Bottom right, Mr. Walker Archer finds out who's skipping today, as he points out the guilty one in his attendance book. "If at first you don't succeed, try again, and you will probably still be wrong," is Mr. Anthony Cavis', top right, motto as he checks over a yearbook layout with Terry Finsterwald. Bottom left, Mr. Garey Harvey, is caught laughing at one of his own jokes again. Teaching future teachers how to keep a class under control is the main concern of, Mr. Joseph Pavlov, top right. Top left, Mrs. Grace Zapel peers over Valerie Forest's shoulder and aids her in finding needed information for a panel discussion.

Clerical and Business Courses Open Doors To Related Careers

Helping students adjust to office life is the main objective of the business department. These courses are very helpful to students looking for jobs in today's world. Far left, Mr. Peter Findley discusses a puzzling question with his retailing class while, center, Mr. Elery Horning checks out Mary Rzoncas' typing skills. Making one final try to get a passing grade from Miss Sondra Cawrse, lower left, seems an impossible chore for Connie Campbell. Reading aloud to her retailing class is, upper right, Mrs. Virginia Billings. Lower right, Mrs. Florence Joachim points out an error in Kim LaMees' shorthand.

Basic Tools and Politics Adapt to Students' Needs

The Social Studies Department is helping students become aware of their responsibilities of adulthood. Current Affairs, taught by Mr. Don Chamberlain, above, is a new class which also helps students to become aware of what is going on around them. Lower right, Mr. Goldwin Smith explains to his American History class about the world of yesterday and today. Making use of A.V. materials such as film strips add to the interesting lectures of Mr. Charles Homberg.

Keeping in Shape: Physically and Mentally

The Home Ec. Department tries to offer a wide range of courses to suit the interests of many students. Not only do they appeal to the girls but the boys as well. Above, Mrs. Charlotte Carufel sees that the seams are pressed down "just so." "Hold still" Miss Karen Yager, upper center, cries as Pam Eber squirms about during a hemming session. Right, Miss Bethany Radke helps Donna Beier lay out pattern pieces for her next project.

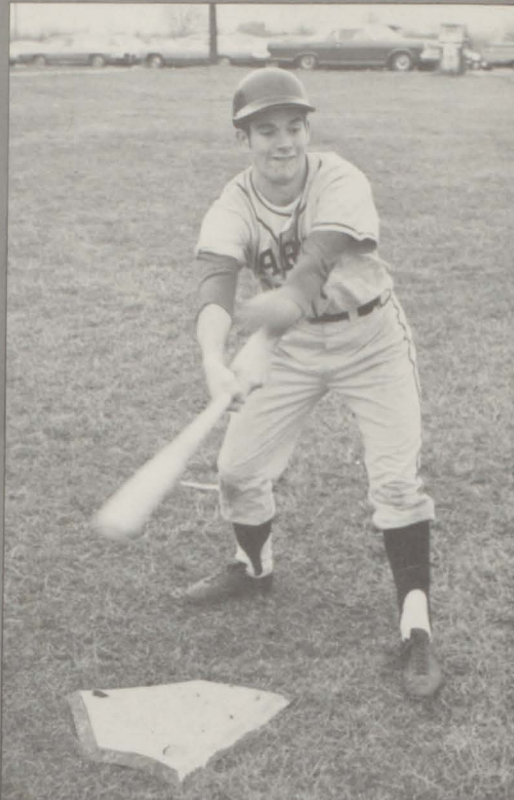

Keeping the hungry students of M.C.H.S. well fed is the duty of Mrs. Grace Nicholes, Mrs. Joyce Maas, Mrs. Doris Blain, and Mrs. Mary Chitti, upper right. Lower right, Mr. Lawrence Shackett, Mr. David Green, Mr. Leonard Beier, Mrs. Arlene Baker, Mr. Eldon Lozen, and Mr. Walter Thomas are the custodians who keep our school clean both day and night.

Mariners Surprise Tigers, Break Losing Streak

This year at M.C.H.S. our hard-working football team won more than just a game. They not only won our first, all important game against Armada, but our school and team gained in spirit, confidence and respect.

The first win of the season brought wild reactions from players and fans alike. Players—running, laughing and backslapping. Fans—screaming, laughing, jumping and falling. These were the reactions as victory arrived for the first time in three years. And excitement carried on through the games that seemed to be won, then slipped through our fingers in the last minutes. This year the team put together a really great effort and let it be known that they were again “Fighting Mariners.”

Many of our energetic lettermen received well-deserved recognition for their efforts this year. Mark Schilling, an all-around great player was chosen as first team, All League defensive linebacker. Also, receiving Honorable Mention for their offensive drive were Doug Schumacher (center), Mark Schilling (back), and Jim Taylor (tackle). Jim Bradshaw (end), Jerry DeRue (Guard), and George Griffor (half-back) received Honorable Mention for their defensive abilities. Also, this year's enthusiastic co-captains, Doug Schumacher and Jerry DeRue did a great job of lending spirit and aid to their teammates.

C'mon you guys let's start moving out there!", shouts Coach Leonard Goulding as some exciting plays start to come through.

The Fighting J.V. Mariners had it really rough this year against some very tough competition. Two great playing Freshmen, Brian Zimmerman and Rick Killian were brought up for J.V.

"They WON!", "They were really great!", "Whoopie!" These are several of the reactions this years players brought from their enthusiastic fans.

Frosh Push Ahead with Teamwork

This year's freshman team may not have met with beginner's luck, but they certainly proved that they'll be ready to move into the J.V. spot next year. With the help of their coach, Mr. Mike Innes, they put up some stiff competition, through teamwork.

Jim Bradshaw's face reflects the determination and strong will that was felt by every member of our basketball team this year. These special qualities led them through a greatly improved season, winning many exciting battles between strong opponents.

The varsity team did a great job of working together, and reached the goal of a fine season record. Their enthusiasm gave them power to raise the score and win the final minutes of some close games.

Last Half Comeback—Shakes 'Em Up

Dribbling to a third place standing are the 1972-73 Varsity Cagers: Manager Wayne Shagena, Joe Burns, Tom Benoit, Mark Schilling, Jim Taylor, Jim Bradshaw, Coach Gene Gunderson, Don Parcell, Steve Winkler, George Griffor, Steve Johnson, Bill Shattuck, and Manager Jon Benedict.

"Shake 'em up, shake, shake, shake, shake 'em up!" In a six game winning streak at the end of the Varsity season, quite a few teams went away pretty shook up. They came looking for a victory, but the Mariners had no intentions of letting them have it.

Many teams, like the Tars, got smeared in all-out battles. This sign by the cheerleaders, right, foretold the future of many games, not just the one with Anchor Bay. Below, George Griffor has everything under control as he snatches the ball in a leap which seems to completely baffle his opponents. Bottom, opposite page, Don Parcell jumps for the sky while preparing to slip the ball through the nets again, and again, and again . . . . "Easy does it," only a couple more inches to go and Mark Schilling will add two more points to his total for the game.

Hustle, Height—Key Factors

Pushing their way through a forceful season, are The J.V. Mariners: Standing: Doug Robb, Jerry Biskner, Glenn Prange, Coach Olde, Scott Currier, Dave Farmer, and Rob Carpenter. Sitting: Jim Perry, Jerry Charbeneau, Bill Thompson, Roger Kiersykowski, Mark Galvin, and Dan Griffin.

Many victories and a lot of valuable experience are what the J.V. team came away with this year. Their willingness to meet and overcome challenges in a tough season proved them capable of taking over the Varsity spot next year.

Frosh Leap Into Action

There's a great future in the M.C.H.S. freshman basketball team. Their size and speed earned them a fair amount of victories in a season of powerful opponents. Russell Schutt led the team in scoring, with 14 point per game.

In its third year of existence, Wrestling proved to be a tough competitor for the more popular sports of Basketball and Football.

Soaring Spirits, Signs of Future Challengers

"Although our record was not at all good, the attitude of each team member was fantastic!" These are the words of Mr. Robert Otis, the new, but capable coach of this year's Track and Field. If there was a record for attitude, these guys would certainly be on top.

Whatever is at the end of the track, it must be good, since Ed Blake isn't letting anything get in his way. We see that Paul Dandron, bottom right, opposite page, has been practicing his leap-frog lately. "That's not fair, you got a head start!" yells John Markel, as he and Tom Benoit, above, seen to be running their own race. Bottom left, opposite page, Dick Markel doesn't take time to say "thanks" as he dashes on with the baton that John Markel just handed him. Top, opposite page, we see every muscle tense as one of Marine City's finest pole vaulters reaches the height of success. Above left, Jim Taylor searches the sky for the shot put he just threw.

The tennis team is constantly improving their skills and talents. This year we placed third in the league. Congratulations, Coach Newcombe and team.

Right, Fred Stanko makes an expert leap into the air as he slaps one back over the net. Below, Mark Blake makes a triumphant success out of a hopeless serve.

Rackets Are Raised, Matches Are Won

Putting, Driving Up to Par

Hustling Nine Slide into Exciting Season

"I want a hot dog!" yells one little boy as he watches the exciting Mariner baseball game. And the guys who helped make it exciting with their outstanding performances were: Don Parcell, Dave Uppleger, and Mark Schilling. Good old Don pitched a one hitter against Port Huron Central, which we won 5 to 0. Last year's foxy captain was Dave Uppleger.

Top right, Lynn Watson goes for a high pop. Opposite page, top, Scott Van Wormer proves that it's better to be "safe" than sorry as he slides into home. "Ready or not, here it comes!", yells Don Parcell as he prepares to get 'em out; one, two, three. Bottom, George Griffor gives it a home run swing.

Posing for their bubble gum card snapshots are some returning baseball lettermen: Standing: Scott Van Wormer, Doug Schumacher, Steve Johnson, and John Benedict. Kneeling: Mark Shilling, George Griffor, Dean Zimmerman, and Don Parcell.

The varsity girls proved this year that they were liberated through many successful performances in the growing world of girls' sports. They participated in soccer, basketball, and other sports.

The words of Miss Martha Lownsbury sum up the season of the Varsity basketball team, "This was a rebuilding year. In spite of heavy losses due to graduation last year, we had a very dedicated and enthusiastic team." The enthusiasm of these girls carried them through both wins and losses.

Ambition, Effort, Practice Lead J.V. Teams to Victory

Scratched and bruised girls made up the J.V. Basketball and Soccer teams. The Mini Mariners displayed that no one was too difficult to handle as they defeated neighboring teams. They proved this when they whopped Holy Cross' J.V. Above Joyce Griffor makes dribbling towards a basket look as easy as 1-2-3. Not even tough competition can stop Candy White, right, as she drives down the court. Much of the credit goes to Debbie Ledford, who whipped the young Mariners into perfect shape. Despite all the complications the team faced, they wound up with better scores than in the past few years.

The Kicky Soccer gals ran over P.H.C. Captain Karen Krause led the scoring attack to lead her team on to a sweet victory.

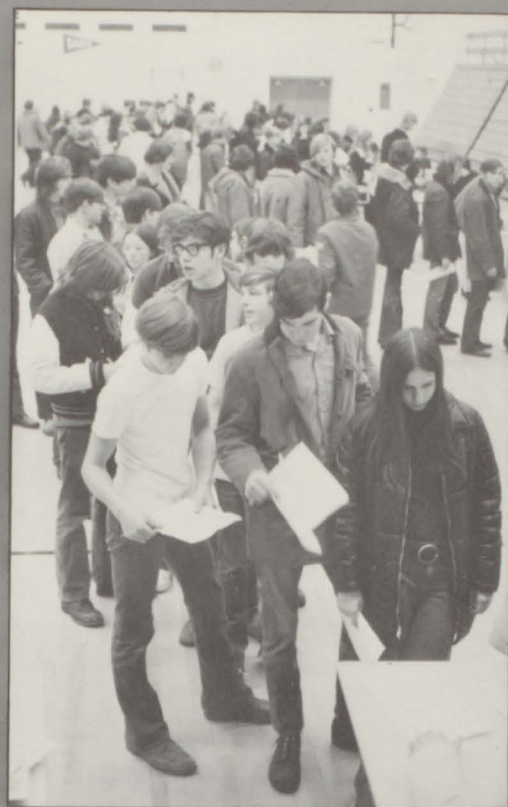

The jolly jumping J.V. team members are: Tammy Parcell, Michelle Valla, Lorrie Hansen, Candy White, Rosemary Rodriguez, Barb Russell, Joy Fournier, Cathy Davidson, Coach Debbie Ledford, Dawn O'Rourke, Sandy Boulter, Laura Hurlburt, Diana Wiinikainen, Joyce Griffor, Debbie Allison, and Debbie Kammer.

STUDENT LIFE

"Come on, you guys, let's do the Bunny Hop!" "Would you look at that combination he's got on! Does that ever look dumb." "You better stop talking and look at your own." And so flew the comments at M.C.H.S. during Spirit Week.

On B-Bop day, parents watched as the fashions of their school days fell from closets and trunks into the hands of modern day greasers. Bottom, opposite page, we see the ring-leaders of our friendly neighborhood radiator gang; Mary Reichle, Gail Parmentier, Glen Terbush and Burl Hill. Plaids, stripes and polka dots were never better matches than on Clash Day. Top left, opposite page, Bruce Maloney takes pride in dressing to fit in with the reat of the fashionable crowd. On Twirp Day, the entire male population of the school was reduced, by the girls, to the level of "Slave for a Day". However, their egos didn't seem to be damaged. Top right, opposite page, we can see that Art Grabowski still takes pride in looking nice for Tammy Parcell. Right, Terry Loftus feels that Dave Duke should win the "Best Dancer" award after seeing the talent he displays here. Modeling the latest in shoulder bags, is Jim Bradshaw, top right.

The fun, the excitement, and the hilarious good times—these are what will bring a laugh and a smile as we look back on Spirit Week 1972.

Cindy's Warmth and Friendliness

Overwhelmed by tears, Cindy makes her way through the cheering crowd after she was announced Homecoming Queen. A spark of remembrance and a glowing smile will always be kindled in Cindy as she looks back on her reign of the 1972 Homecoming.

Cindy reflects the many sides of her warm personality in assuming her royal position. Overwhelmed by tears, she makes her way through the cheering crowd after she was announced Homecoming Queen. She reacted with joy and the dignity of a true queen during the ceremony which honored her crowning, and later, during itself. A spark of remembrance and a glowing smile will always be kindled in Cindy as she looks back on her reign of the 1972 Homecoming.

Captures All

Not only was there spirit but there was also happiness and excitement at Marine City High School for the seven lucky girls who were chosen on Friday, October sixth to preside over the Homecoming Festivities. The seven honored girls chosen to reign as attendants to Queen Cindy Tranchemontagne were: Senior representatives; top, Varsity Cheerleader Patti Rintz, center, Vicki Frank, a popular senior, and right, Student Council representative Mary Reichle. The two Junior girls chosen by their fellow classmates were; upper left, majorette Janice Teneglia and lower right, Fran D'Onofrio, a well-liked Junior. Chosen by the class of "75" was, upper right, the sports enthusiast Joyce Griffor. Last but not least, the class of "76" chose their high-spirited princess to be, lower left, Rosanne Lozowski.

Their Smiles Will Always Be Remembered

Floats Fire Up Class Competition

Hard work and a lot time are put into a class float. Even though the finished products do not win first place, the satisfaction of an entry well built is the greatest reward. Upper right, freshman representative, Rosanne Lozowski, anxiously awaits her turn in the Homecoming Parade.

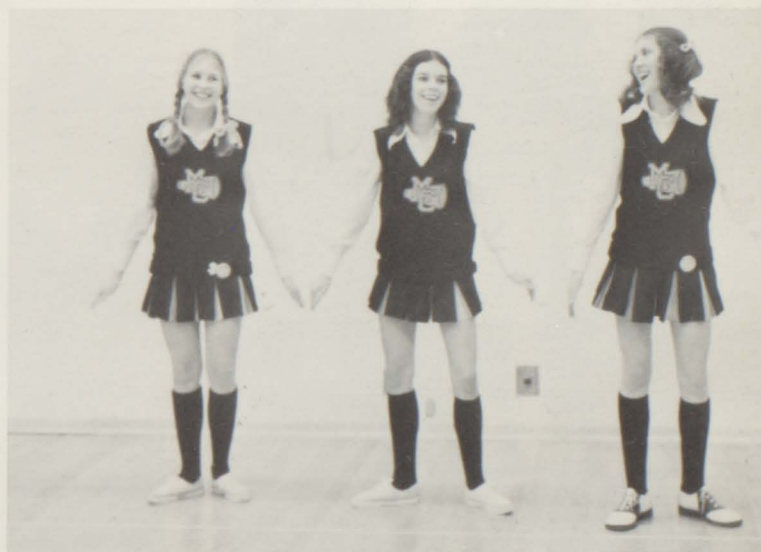

The spirited Freshmen cheerleaders are: Bottom: Julie Smith. Middle: Debbie Wolf, Rosanne Lozowski, and Dawn McLouth. Top: Darlene Beattie.

Our M.C. Freshmen cheerleaders, selected in late September, were quite active this year. Making their debut as high school cheerleaders, they gained experience and had the thrill of victory as well as the agony of defeat.

They placed third when they went to a day camp in Kingston, Michigan where they were competing against other Freshmen and Junior Varsity squads.

"Right on, right on, hey!" yell Dawn McLouth and Julie Smith as they get ready for the start of the Algonac game. Teaching the spirited crowd a new cheer at a pep assembly are: Rosanne Lozowski, Michelle Beauchamp, and Debbie Wolf, below.

Have We Got the Spirit? Yea Man!

Cheerleading, Not a Gift;

Boosting the J.V. squad to victory are: Georgiann Kaminski, Anita Smith, Joan Britz, Robbin Bailey, Jane Britz, and Colleen Nugent.

Raising spirits to an all time high are the Varsity Cheerleaders: Jo Ann Minor, Teri Rhodes, Patty Rintz, Karen Krause, Janis Wiinikainen and Kim Griffin.

An Achievement

Striving for unity and support the girls did all they could to promote attendance at games. Pep assemblies were held to spur the Mariners on to victory. With hopes to become the ideal squad the girls spent countless hours rehearsing skits, thinking of ways to arouse students unity and enthusiasm and trying to perfect their form, chants, and skills. The efforts put forth were well worth their while for without our determined cheerleaders the support of our teams wouldn't have been quite as great. Under the supervision of Miss Jean Bastain, the M.C.H.S. cheerleaders sparked the spirit of M.C. to a new height.

While attending the International Cheerleading Foundation summer camp at Eastern Michigan University they learned many new ideas. They shared these ideas and learned more when they spent a day at a clinic held by Pontiac Central. Their efforts were paid off by being invited to cheer the Detroit Pistons on to a victory.

Creative Performances Win Laughter, Tears

In the past year M.C.H.S. Musical Theatre class has performed three musicals.

The first musical was "Three Pink Leprechauns", which was a children's play about the attempts of four guys to marry the small town's best looking girl. Chris Cole, with Valorie Forest, far right, thought he would never go on stage in those clothes.

The second production was "No No a Million Times No". Wendy Finsterwald, Kim Goodell, Chris Cole, Caroline Ravin, far right top, Mark Schilling and Dan Nichols, not shown, starred in it. It was a comedy about a villian and the poor farmer's daughter's attempt to get rid of him. Emmeline, played by Gail Parmentier, below, wonders if she is really engaged to Iffy Cann, played by Terry Loftus. The chorus in the background helped with the singing.

The third play was a drama about a lonely Old Maid who pretends she has a son, who shows up in "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals". Mary Bonnici, Gerri Coussens, Sandy Wesbrook and Dan Nichols toast Yvonne Cohrs, who played the Old Lady, and Mark Schilling, her son, Kenneth, center opposite page. Gerri Coussens and Mary Bonnici, far bottom left, wonder if Exquisytos cigarettes are the very best.

The directors of the plays were Miss Jean Bastian, who was in charge of the music, and Mr. Garey Harvey, who worked with the acting. Bottom left, Wendy Finsterwald assists Mr. Harvey putting on Sandy Wesbrook's hair piece.

The plays were well received by all who attended.

“Welcome to Putnam’s Landing”

“Rally Round the Flag, Boys!” was the comedy chosen as the M.C.H.S. ’73 all-school play. Putnam’s Landing, an innocent little New England town, seemed to be the target for the Army’s new missile base.

While trying to ignore hisses and boos from the people of the town, Lieutenant Guido DiMaggio, Mark Bowden, above left, explains his predicament, “As a kid who was born and raised in this typical, warm friendly American Community, I can truthfully say that every citizen in town hates me.” He’s the public relations officer in town, but he’s not getting too far. “After all,” comment the town folk, far upper right, “What will happen when the town is full of . . . . SOLDIERS?”

Grace and Harry Bannerman, Barb Brenner and Dan Nichols, above, have their own problems to worry about. Grace is very civic-minded, which means she’s on every committee in town. Harry pleads, “But why don’t we ever go to the drive-in movies and sit in the dark and eat popcorn anymore?” But Grace doesn’t even hear. She’s worried about getting Harry to play the town crier in her 4th of July folk drama.

After years of hating boys, ole One-Punch Goodpasture, Renee DeCou, has some new feelings. “I mean I used to enjoy giving them a bloody nose, or a kick in the shins, but all of a sudden I like them,” she laments, far upper right.

Although the Captain has said “No fraternizing with the town girls!”, Private William O. Wambess, Mark Schilling, doesn’t figure a little infringement on the rules will hurt. “I’m from Milwaukee,” he tells Gloria Coleman, Debbie Enders, left.

“Call me Della,” screeches Karen Burgett to Captain Hoxie, Dave Duke, far left, as she again pokes him in the ribs, “I’m sorry my Arthur couldn’t be here. You’d love him.” Hoxie just growls, while dreaming of a missile base in Arabia, “where you don’t see anyone but your own men for six months at a stretch.”

As it turns out, one of the missiles, “which can’t possibly go off”, goes off. DiMaggio and his girl, a psychology nut, get shipped to Alaska and, “In the spring, there’ll be a new little DiMaggio.”

Hard Work, Play Make for Involved Year

The Student Government has again put forth their effort in trying to promote cooperation among the students and faculty of our school. Leading them through this big task were this year's officers: Patty Rintz, Treasurer; Gail Parmentier, Secretary; Chris Cole, President; Karen Mason, Vice-President and Scott Britz, Parliamentarian.

People like Laura Watson spent many hours providing us with that hot bag of popcorn and something to munch on during our sports events again this year. Their hot coffee and hot dogs were especially welcome during the chilling nights of the football season.

Right before Christmas the Student Council performed the original play "Trouble in the Workshop." This musical-comedy was about the trouble Santa Claus had with his toys and elves on Christmas Eve. Gail Parmentier played a saucy, but not so bright jack-in-the-box, bottom left, who maintained, "Nothin's wrong with me." The play was such a success that the cast, bottom right performed the play at two elementary schools, spreading Christmas cheer to many younger admirers.

This year our school was very lucky to have an exchange student, brought here by the Student Government. Hans Marczinski, left, from Munich, Germany enjoyed many different things around the school. Among them was double birthday kiss from Mary Ann McPherson and Gail Parmentier, right.

NHS Measures Up to Required Standards

Leadership, service, intelligence, and individual character . . . all these are qualities found in National Honor Society members. This year, unlike previous years, the teachers filled out an evaluation sheet on each student who qualified for membership. This evaluation included such things as leadership, participation in extra curricular activities, how well you work in class, and if you work above what is expected. Still, the main factor is intelligence. A sophomore must have a 3.5 (A-) average and juniors and seniors must maintain a 3.0 (B).

Each year, the NHS holds an induction ceremony for new members. Parents, relatives, and the entire student body are invited to watch. Following the ceremony, parents and relatives are honored guests at a tea given by the National Honor Society members in the home-economics room. Making plans for this year's tea are Pam Kaminski, secretary, Lorna Fahs, vice-president, Linda Hampe, president and Miss Bethany Radtke, advisor.

This year's encouraging advisors are Miss Bethany Radtke and Mr. Garey Harvey.

Stairway to Heaven Successful Happening

"Are you going to the prom?" . . .
 "Did you get your dress yet?" . . .
 "What's it like?" . . . Questions like these were heard throughout the halls of MCHS. Everyone was discussing "Stairway to Heaven".

While George Griffor and Cindy Tranchmontagne, King and Queen of the Prom envision a lovely evening, Dave Duke gives Terry Loftus a quiz-zical look as she says, "PLEASE pass the butter." Left we see by the looks on the faces of Bill Grojean, Duane Polio, and Steve Winkler that the best part of the evening has finally arrived ———the eats.

The Junior Class found that through good planning and hard work, they could put something together and make it become a success.

Band Turns on Tempo; Chorus Tunes in

"And a One and a Two and a Three" . . . da-da-da-da-da-da and once again the Mariner band is off into a whirlwind of songs and melodies. Under the direction of Miss Jean Bastain and with the cooperation of the chorus, the band has put on several concerts throughout the year for the public to see and enjoy. In doing this, they have found that teamwork is the key to success, for without the band, the chorus couldn't perform and without the chorus the band couldn't be a success.

The band has also marched in several parades this past year. The highstepping majorettes have led them past many smiling faces and applauding hands. Through an exciting musical season the MCHS band marched on.

Reading the Marine City Independent and taking short naps are what the library is usually used for. You can always tell when you're in the library by the "Quiet, please . . . shhh . . . where's your pass? . . . OUT!!!!" The library aids keep busy during the day by filing mountains of cards, shelving books, and composing those overdue notices that tell you that the book in the bottom of your locker is five months late. These statements and rules might seem to ruin your fun, or stop you right in the middle of a good book, but they are a necessity if the library is to function properly.

It might be a little confusing at first, but Miss Virginia Schoenberg, top, thinks that the aids should get the hang of filing by the Dewey Decimal system PRETTY soon.

Cheers echo through the gym as Kim Griffin, above, leads some up-and-coming cheerleaders through "PROUD".

Congruent triangles, 30-60-90 triangles, Isosceles triangles, equilateral triangles; while studying all these, Linda Hampe, right, shows Sandy Kammer that she has invented a new kind of triangle—one with four sides.

Aids Continue to Assist Faculty, Student Body

Handling those complicated projectors, tapes, and screens proves to be no problem for the competent projectionists. Below, Miss Virginia Schoenberg shows them the correct way of feeding the film into the projector without getting it all chewed up.

Being Mr. Olde's aid has its ups and downs, thinks Jeff Daniels as he sits on the scales to see how much he weights. "No, this is how you do it!" exclaims Dan Grojean, left, as he takes over Mrs. Burman's job of adding fractions on the overhead projector. Jeff Britz sits in the stands busily taking statistics as he thinks, "Boy, you really have to be on the ball!"

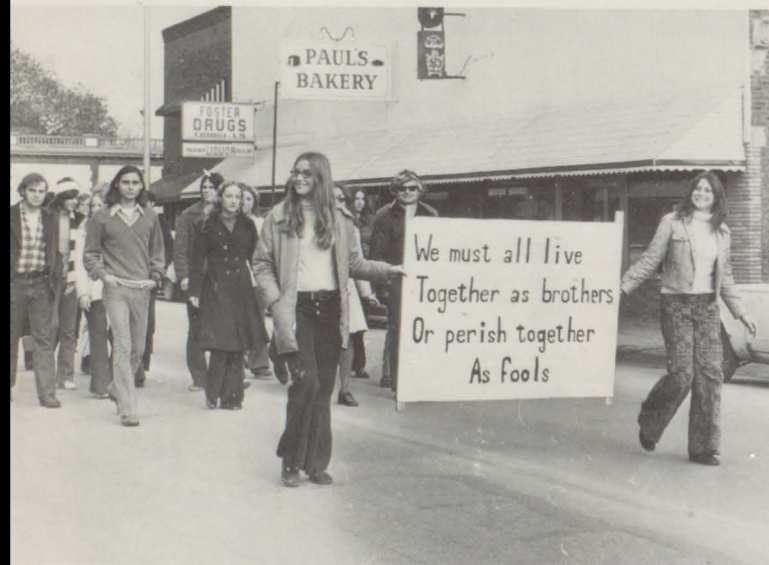

Marine City High School and Holy Cross High School, have done many things in Marine City to make this "A Little Better World." Their main goal this year was to make the headquarters into a Social Service Center. Every family in Marine City was to be given food and clothing whenever needed. Not only did they help families, but they held festive parties for the children of the community.

Another aim this year was called, "The Christ Tree." This was an artificial tree kept in Mrs. Zapels' home. Every time someone performed a constructive action, they filed a card at the headquarters, and a star was put on the tree. A list of actions were posted and the tree was moved when it had 1,000 stars.

This year's active officers were: Georgia Guyor, pres., Jim DeHenau, v. pres., Mary Lynn Ellis, sec., and Mariam Guyor, tres.

U.N. Finds Success in Achieving New Goal

Piñatas, Plays Create a "Feliz Navidad"

The Spanish students of M.C.H.S. know much more than how to say hello, goodbye, and what time it is. They have learned the customs and traditions of the people living in another country. The "Christmas tradition" in Señora Grenzke's Spanish classes had been to make piñatas and break them in the cafe during class hours. The piñatas were made from papier mache, balloons, and mostly anything else that was handy. Inside of these figures was the best part. They were filled with fun, excitement, and candy. When broken with a little plastic bat, the floor and anyone who got in the way was showered with caramels, chocolates, and mints. Not only did they break piñatas, but the Spanish 3 & 4 classes put on a Christmas play. Posing for a group candid shot, top, the second hour class displays their candy-filled piñatas. Above, Deanna Weaver sits and wonders who the smarty was that stepped on her and took all her candy. Left, Debbie Beattie (the old woman) sits on Mark Baxendales (Santa Claus) lap as she reads her endless list of what she wants for Christmas.

These customs and traditions not only teach students how to speak, but also help to make them more familiar with how Spaniards live.

Many Active Clubs

One active organization in our school is the Investment Club under the direction of Mr. Don Chamberlain. At break, they have satisfied everyone's hunger by selling candy to obtain more stocks. Not only have they become part owners of Playboy International, but they also own three shares of American Motors and one share of Kellogs. Left, Donna Beier and Renee DeCou are selling treats at break to Kevin Genshaw and Greg Reynolds. All the members are putting forth a big effort to make the club a success. Another active group is the Photography Club sponsored by Mr. Walker Archer. This club was organized to teach many students the basic techniques of Photography. They have learned how to load and develop film, print and process pictures, and how to come up with the PERFECT picture? Bottom left, Dave Duke and Wayne Shagena are measuring the temperature of the Dark Room. Experimenting with his new Christmas present, Jon Benedict, bottom right, can't quite get the wall in focus. Everyone in this club seems very much interested in improving his photographic abilities.

Make Schools More Interesting

Clubs Provide Extras That Really Count!

Preparation and hard work are what go into the 8-ball club. The duties of a member are wide and varied. They include the tasks of closing the curtain at the exact minute cues are given and switching the lights to capture the right atmosphere. 8-ball club also squeezes in time to aid outside groups. Without their assistance, no concert or play would run smoothly. Setting the mood for a dance is another job they undertake. The curtains, the lights, and the action give the 8-ball club all the work they can handle at Marine High. Careful planning kept crew members Rick Pauli, Ed Lozowski, Dave Micoff, and Chris Cole busy each week as another assembly, game, or play required their assistance.

Log Swings Into Full Operation

Preparing to get the paper onto the press and into the hands of their readers are: Standing: Penny Snider, Dorothy Jorden, Mary Lou Pietrykowski, Candy White, Mr. Walker Archer, Chris Cole. Seated: Kim LaMee, Diane Rodgers, Jerri Lynn Biskner, Terry Dawe, Kim Griffin.

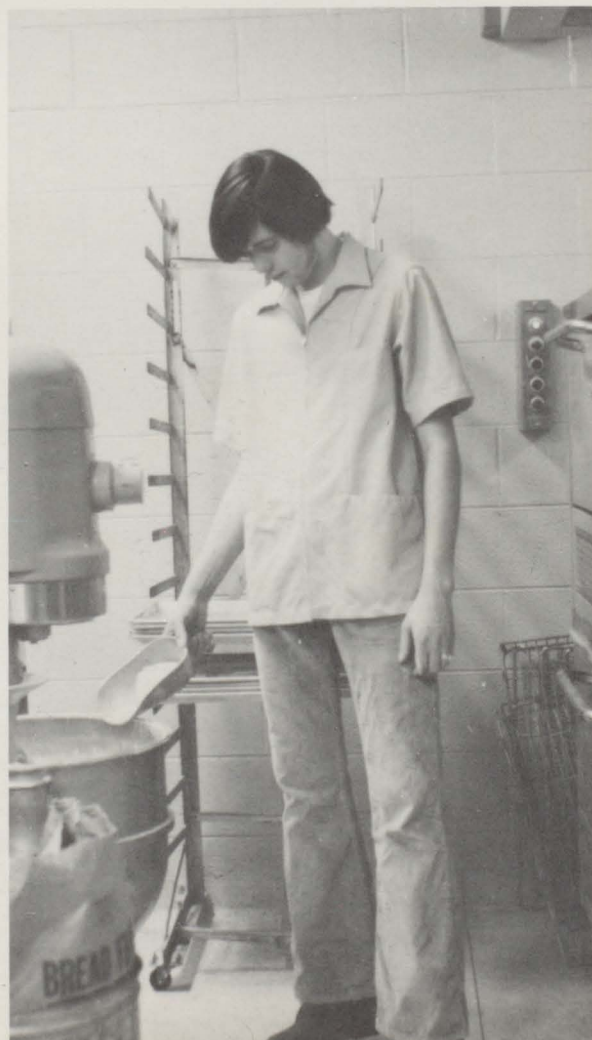

This year the Log has made many great improvements and successful changes in their production. The paper, through the combined efforts of a creative and interested staff, came out once a week. It contained news for everyone. Fans could read news on the latest battles in the M.C.H.S. sports world. Those interested in their community could find out about the problems and successes of people around them. Mr. Walker Archer led the staff through some rough beginnings, then gave advice and opinions as the paper started rolling smoothly. Right, he talks with Chris Cole, Terry Dawe and Dorothy Jordan about how they will be able to express their ideas on subjects that interest them. Penny Snider, the staff editor, was perhaps one of the biggest helps to the paper's success, adding a few words here and there, typing copy, and finally being able to stand back with the rest of the staff to admire the finished copies of an informative and impressive 1973 Log.

Students Earn, Learn by Work Experience

The business world is brightened by the faces of the Co-op and Trades students from M.C.H.S. These students work during school time in order to prepare them for the "outside" world. They learn all the angles and techniques of a trade and then store this knowledge away for future use.

niak have found an easy way to make their bread. "Do you spell that with an e or i?", Patty Rintz asks one of her regular customers at Lake's Cleaners. Dave Lozowski, left, adds
just a bit more flour to his dough in his Quantity Foods Class. Taking inventory isn't the greatest job to have but Gerri Dandron doesn't mind. Bottom left, Sifting, adding, mixing, stirring and beating are all part of Darlene Bieth's work day. "That'll be $4.02, please," comments Debbie Axemacher as she rings up her last order of the day.

"Skiing good to excellent at most ski resorts," was heard over the radio while everyone got ready to go with their mittens, hats, and skis. This year the Ski Club skied at Mt. Grampian, Black Forest, and Pine Knob on alternating Tuesdays and Wednesdays . . . if the weather held up. You may recall one of the times when Linda Frank came down one of the hills and fell in a mud puddle, or maybe the time when Kris Konyha hit himself in the head with his own ski. Everyone must have thought M.C. something else when at the their first time skiing, the freshmen girls screamed their heads off all the way down the hill. Even though the weather might have dampened the Ski Club's clothes, it didn't even start to effect their spirits.

Alone on the Hills

Skiers Discover a New Kind of Freedom

Peppy Pica People Produce

Each year the Mariner Staff members strive for new ideas and a better yearbook. This year was no exception as the staff devoted many endless hours into their production. Opposite page far left, Mr. Anthony Cavis finds he has Excedrin headache No. 99 as Luanne Guldensein tells him that she can not possibly use such a headline in her layout. Freshman staff members do not always get the best of everything, discovers Jenny Scrafano, opposite page left, as she is assigned the task of keeping the index in order. Below, far left, Jane Britz, Deb Owens, Pam Eber, and Joan Britz celebrate the completion of another Mariner Yearbook. Sue Maitland and Barb Shelton, left, search for the perfect picture for the Faculty layout. With all the worries, pressure, and frustration an editor is put under, ours, Wendy Finsterwald, below, left, always managed a smile. By inserting a word here and there, Barb Brenner, below, seems to have just what it takes to spiff up any copy.

Having various interests and equipped with various skills students combat and conquer degrees of difficulty in their daily challenges. Whether the task is to be rated the class with the greatest spirit, to obtain theatrical talent or to better scholastic ability students become involved in reaching for perfection.

Producing a yearbook that everyone likes may appear to be an easy task. I am sure, however, that anyone on the yearbook staff would gladly tell you what goes into a yearbook.

He would start off by telling about the hours he spends during school, after school, and on weekends trying to find just the right word for his copy, or the way to fit a long picture into a wide space.

Many people aided in the production of the 1973 Mariner. We, the staff, would like to express our gratitude to these people who contributed so much to our book.

We would like to give our immeasurable thanks to Inter-Collegiate Press, especially Mr. Larry Smith, Mrs. Frances Nagorney, and Mr. James Garret for their constant ability to answer our endless questions.

As for help in photography we would like to recognize Mr. Walker Archer and his photography club. For formal and group pictures Asker-Shain deserves much credit.

We would like to thank Mrs. Julianna Clausen's art classes for their help with our special art work.

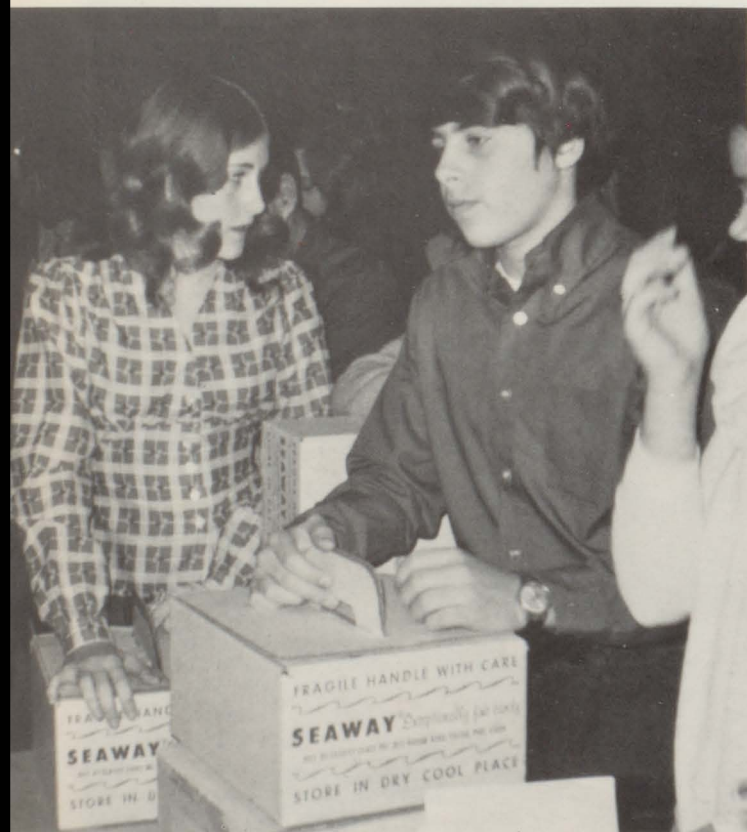

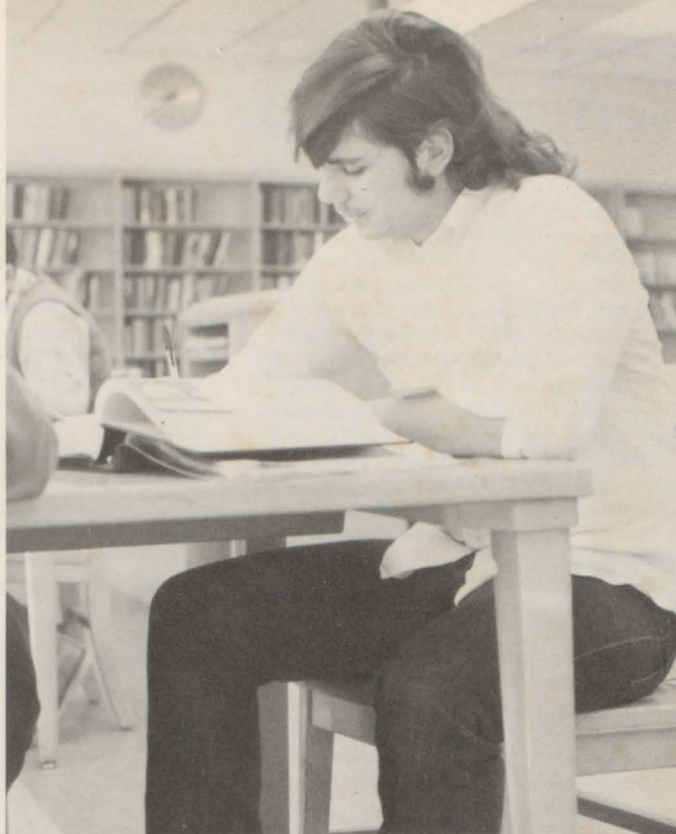

Of course we can't forget the Advertisers and Patrons who have helped with the financing of our book.

I personally would like to thank the 1973 yearbook staff for all of their hard work and tireless efforts.

We all join together to thank our advisor, Mr. Anthony Cavis, for all his patience and encouragement. After seeing the final product, we are glad he sent us back to write the copy one more time, or had us move the picture up 3 picas.

All of these people contributed to our yearbook, directly or indirectly. the 1973 Mariner is the product of all of our combined efforts and we are happy to say it belongs to all of us.

The first part of the paper discusses the importance of understanding the cultural context of the research. It highlights the need for researchers to be sensitive to the values and beliefs of the communities they are studying. This is particularly important in the field of education, where cultural differences can significantly impact learning outcomes.

The second part of the paper focuses on the methodology used in the study. It describes the process of selecting participants, collecting data, and analyzing the results. The authors emphasize the importance of using a mixed-methods approach to capture both quantitative and qualitative data.

The third part of the paper presents the findings of the study. It shows that there are significant differences in learning outcomes between different cultural groups. These findings have important implications for educators and policymakers, who need to take cultural differences into account when designing educational programs.

The final part of the paper discusses the limitations of the study and suggests areas for future research. The authors acknowledge that the study was limited to a specific population and time period, and they suggest that future research should explore the generalizability of the findings.
